Dear Patient,

We are excited to announce a new relationship with our colleagues at Providence Medical Group and Providence Regional Medical Center Everett, effective July 1, 2016.

For more than 35 years, Western Washington Medical Group clinicians have provided expert cardiovascular care to residents of the north Puget Sound community. This new affiliation with Providence will allow us to better care for you. Rest assured, Providence offers the full range of state-of-the art cardiology services available. With this new partnership, your care in our office, coordination with your primary care provider, and care you receive at Providence will be more closely integrated, making a better experience for you and your family.

Our board-certified cardiologists and nurse practitioners are committed to clinical excellence; our team will continue to offer comprehensive consultation and diagnostic testing services, including electrophysiology, interventional cardiology, vascular and endovascular medicine, cardiac and vascular imaging, and treatment of congestive heart failure.

Dealing with a cardiovascular disease can be a challenging and frightening experience. Our integrated services allow us to diagnose cardiovascular disease at its earliest stages and develop a personalized treatment plan that fits each patient's needs. We will work closely with you, your family and other members of your health care team to provide the best possible care for your condition in a supportive and comfortable environment.

Your relationship with your cardiology provider will not change. We share with our Providence colleagues respect for shared decision making with you and your family which will remain independent and personal. We will work together to do what is right for you.
